The Italian Alps provides the stage for the exhibition pieces, unique in both shape and concept, which have been designed by six artists and six architects.

Some of the most versatile individuals within the field of contemporary art were chosen to create this new union between art and architecture: Daniel Buren & Patrick Bouchain – Carsten Holler & Williams & Tsien – Yoko Ono & Arata Isozaki – Paola Pivi & Cliostraat – Jaume Pensa & Sir Norman Foster – Kiki Smith & Lebbeus Woods.

The Snow Show, devised three years ago by Lance M. Fung, who is a famous artist and collector and who is curator of this exhibition, sees iGuzzini - in collaboration with Isometrix Lighting + Design,

London - assume the role of technical partner.

The six ice and snow sculptures stand out against the dark night and the white mountains, thanks to a charming beam of light which then transforms them into a single majestic contemporary art installation in the open air.

The lighting technology solution uses Lingotto projectors (designed by R. piano), Woody projectors (designed by M. Cucinella) - implemented in many different forms - and a series of Light Up Garden (designed by iGuzzini), Light Up Professional (designed by J.M. Wilmotte) and Ledplus (designed by J.M. Wilmotte) recessed fixtures which have been installed as if they are in a luminous procession.

Fixtures with a compact design have enabled the application of a lighting scheme which, while being non-invasive, is still recognisable and emblematic and leaves an imprint of a luminous narrative which bears all the hallmarks of iGuzzini.
