FINLAND-SNOW SHOW-HOLL

ROVANIEMI (FINLAND), 02/20 (AFP) - in Finnish Lapland A view of a gigantic ice art object 20 february 2003, outside the town of Rovaniemi, designed by renown architect Steven Holl, who designed the Finnish Museum of Modern Art, and acclaimed artist Jene Highstein, represented in the Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) and Guggenheim Museum, is a taste of what is to come next winter when 60 renowned artists and architects are paired to produce 30 large scale art objects of ice and snow here and in neighboring town Kemi under the auspices of EU and UNESCO. It took 60,000 euros, ten men and four weeks to build the hollow cube, which is 10 meters wide, ten meters long, and nine meters tall. AFP PHOTO/Chizuru Kobayashi
